Over the Top

It Works! helped Ashley and Daniel Sinclair pay off their bills and buy some dreams.

by Wendy Rudman

After Ashley and Daniel paid cash for a first class trip to Jamaica they knew they had caught the travel bug. Their most recent toy, a top-of-the-line motor coach, is taking their adventures to a "whole notha level." That's quite different from how they spent the first nine years of their marriage, when vacations were either paid for by credit card or through depleting their limited savings account.

The couple, who have two young daughters, credit their It Works! business with changing their financial lives. "That's such an incredible feeling to know we're living the way God wants us to be—debt free," says Ashley, who is an Ambassador Diamond with It Works! "We've paid off huge bills. We're about to pay off our house. We drive two cars that are completely paid for." They also paid off their student loans and some lingering debt from the birth of their two daughters.

Breathing Easier

Ashley first signed up to become a distributor for It Works! in the summer of 2011 on what she calls "blind faith." She'd seen enough to believe the product and the business could work, and she hoped she was right. "Nine days after I'd signed up, I looked at my husband and said, 'I'm going to make us a million dollars,'" she says, laughing at the memory.

"My initial goal with this company was to just breathe a little easier," she says. "We always were able to pay our bills but we always had a little bit of debt. We could never seem to get ahead. We'd get a little money in the bank and something would happen."

Living a Dream

Ashley's trust in It Works! proved well-founded. In less than a year she was able to sell the women's clothing boutique she had owned and operated for eight years. Daniel, who was working in the family business, was also able to retire and focus on It Works! full time. "We decided to retire him when we made his yearly salary in one month," Ashley says. That left both of them home with their preschool daughters, working side by side.

Ashley says their life seems so ideal that she has trouble believing she's living it. "It's over the top," she says. "It's like we're living someone else's life all the time. I wake up every day and can't believe this is what we get to do." SfH
